Focused on global connections and social justice, the Group of 20 is an important forum where international leaders pursue issues of shared prosperity and sustainable development. In our camp, students will join others interested in honing their skills in topics like finance, communication, governance, and public speaking. Students will learn from professors who are experts in the field of international relations. Future international leaders will prepare presentations on selected topics that have been chosen during workshops. The camp includes trips to international outreach organizations in Philadelphia and a special tour of the United Nations!
